CHICAGO GANGLAND IN FULL RETREAT

President Hoover To Sign Tariff Measure

To Make Elaborate Statement Concerning Faults—Dems To Be Quiet.

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES
(Copyright, 1930, by International News Service, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, June 12.—President Hoover will sign the tariff bill that will be laid on his doorstep in a few days by a weary and divided Congress.

TERRIFIC PRESSURE

He will sign it not withstanding the terrific pressure on him to veto it—pressure probably more severe than has been directed on the excutive for or against any piece of legislation in recent years.

But Mr. Hoover will not give the battered and bedraggled bill his complete and unqualified approval. His signature, it was learned today, will be accompanied by an elaborate statement in which he will set forth that the measure probably has its faults, many of them, but that the good features outweigh the bad ones, and that by judicious use of his flexible powers he can re-mold it as time and experience with the new rates reveal the need for revision.

Thereafter, what is to be known officially as the Smoot-Hawley tariff act of 1930 and unofficially as "The Grundy Bill" will be kicked straightway into the hottest off-year political campaign that country has witnessed in some years. And it is not unlikely that a number of congressional seats will change hands in November because of sectional approval or disapproval of this bill.

CREATES RECORD

Not in a generation perhaps has a tariff bill been subjected to such a hammering as the dog-eared measure which stands on the eve of adoption in the Senate.

Attacked by economists, assailed by the entire automotive industry, deplored by foreign authorities, and condemned by important groups of consumers, the bill has been hot-balled around in congress for fully a year and a half. It has been written and rewritten, vamped and revamped, and each time, according to its opponents, it has been made worse.

Politics has been its bed-fellow, and rate-trading its chambermaid.

Politics will be in the galleries tomorrow when the exhausted senate finally stamps its approval on it. For the bill could not pass save for a few Democratic votes and possibly some Democratic abstentions.

G. O. P. RESPONSIBLE

The Democrats have decided that it is better part of political strategy for the Republicans to accept the responsibility for such an unpopular bill than for the Democrats to take the responsibility for defeating it. Consequently, the bill will pass by just enough votes to make it, with White House approval, a Republican measure.

The political reasoning of the Democrats is more or less simple. Should they defeat the bill and the present business depresion continues they reason it would afford the administration to lay the blame for bad business on Democratic shoulders.

Bidder for Lone Eagle Goal

George Hutchinson, Baltimore flyer, will make an attempt to duplicate the non-stop solo flight achievement of Colonel Lindbergh, pictured as he appeared recently with his family. Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson's two little daughters are Blanche Kathryn, aged 7, and Janet Lee, aged 5. Hutchinson plans to take off from Los Angeles in his specially constructed Lockheed Sirius plane not later than July 1. He will fly to Richmond, Va., then to New York, then eastward across the Atlantic.

HOSPITAL PLAY LOTS OF FUN

All Principals Have Parts Down to Perfection—Show Again Tonight.

Although only a small crowd was in attendance the first evening's showing of the play being put on by the National Thespians for the benefit of the Berger hospital, "The Arrival of Kitty," proved to be one of the most successful in many months. Action, fun, thrills, romance and clever acting on the part of all the principals, featured the show under the direction of J. Wylie Fetherlin. The show is being staged again tonight.

Every person who had a part in the show did fine work and deserves much credit for it.

Following is the cast in the order they appeared: Paul Kirwin in the role of William Winkler; Esther Drum, as Aunt Jane, his sister; Martha Mary Wolfe as Jane, his niece; Charles Goeller as Bobbie Baxter, his niece's sweetheart; Robert Pickens, as Benjamin Moore, his choice for Jane; E. Hortense Reid as Kitty, his actress sweetheart; Mary Margaret Moore in the role of Suzette, Aunt Jane's maid; Charles Kirkpatrick, playing Ting, a bell-boy, and Carl Wallace as Sam, a colored porter.

Other persons who had part in the production but who did not have acting parts were Doris Peters, prompter; John Himrod, stage manager; J. O. Eagleson, who handled the sale of tickets, and Fred Colville, stage carpenter.

It is expected that a larger crowd than that which witnessed the first night's show will be on hand this evening.

NEFF IS OUT FOR SHERIFF

Former Commissioner Expected To File For Office On Democratic Ticket.

With Friday at 6:30 p. m. the deadline for candidate to file their petitions for the primary election this fall, announcement of at least one new candidate entering the field for the office of sheriff has been made.

It is understood that Willis Neff, N. Court street, this city, Wednesday took out his petition and was busy Thursday getting names signed to it, in preparation to filing for the nomination on the Democratic ticket.

Neff is well known throughout the county for he was at one time a county commissioner.

His entrance into the fight means that anything in the race for primary honors may be expected. His announcement makes five men entered in the field. John G. Ward, Jr., and Charles Radcliff, both of this city, Col. Marcy Oswald, and Charles Ankrom are the other four in the race for the office which will be left vacant by Frank Davis after two terms in the courthouse.

Neff's announcement is the only last minute word that has been received from candidates and it is expected that barring a possible surprise, the ranks of the candidates are as they will be when that 6:30 o'clock deadline rolls around.

THURSTON MAN IS CRUSHED TO DEATH

Clayton Barr, 30, Killed By Falling Milk Cans in Elevator Shaft.

Clayton Barr, 30, of Thurston, Fairfield-co was crushed to death Wednesday by 10 loaded milk cans at the bottom of the elevator shaft at the Fairmont Creamery, Columbus. He is survived by his bride of three weeks.

Barr, who was employed by L. John of Kirkersville, was unloading milk cans which he had taken to the creamery. While swinging a loaded truck around, Barr backed into the empty elevator shaft and fell from the first story to the basement, the truck with its 10 cans falling on him.

FORMER RESIDENT TAKEN BY DEATH

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Mark Crouse, a former resident of this city, which occurred in Burlington, Kansas.

COLUMBUS MAN WINS TOURNEY

Nine Hole Blind Bogey Draws 17 Entrants—Rader, Jackson Tied For 2nd.

Les Harrop, of Columbus, won first prize in the 9-hole blind bogey tournament at Pickaway Country Club Wednesday when he scored a 46 plus five for a 51 net score.

Dr. Harry D. Jackson and Earl Rader tied for second. Jackson had 55 minus 5, total 50; Rader had 46 plus 4, total 50.

Dr. Glen D. Phillips and R. L. Brehmer tied for third with 48 net.

Phillips had 52 minus 4, 48, and Brehmer 55 minus 7, 48.

The tournament was played prior to the stag party last night.

TEAM OF HORSES DROWN IN CREEK

A team of fine horses belonging to E. D. Eakin, of near Lockbourne, were drowned Monday when Eakin and his sons were driving the horses across Big Walnut creek and they dropped into a water hole.

The men swam to safety but were unable to untangle the horses from their harness and wagon.

AUTHORITIES INVESTIGATE SHIP WRECK

Charges of Gambling With Lives and Negligence Fires In Official Probe.

BOSTON, June 12—Charges of "gambling with lives" and "gross negligence" were under searching investigation today by federal officials probing the circumstances surrounding the collision Tuesday night in fog-enveloped Massachusetts Bay between the Merchant and Miners steamship Fairfax and the oil tanker Pinthis, with an estimated loss of 46 lives.

With a formal and public inquiry called at the appraisers' stores by federal steamboat inspectors for the purpose of obtaining sworn testimony from witnesses, federal grand jury and possibly a congressional committe inquiry loomed.

SIX ANGLES

Government officials were probing deep into six angles of the sea disaster, in which the coastwise liner rammed the tanker, the latter sending up a spray of flaming oil and gasoline as she went down to the bottom off Scituate and panic-stricken men, women and children, some with their clothing aflame, leaping from the flame-swept side of the Fairfax into the "liquid fire" on the sea.

The angles under the searchlight of investigation were:

1. Alleged failure by the Fairfax to call for outside aid and instead confining a request for held to the steamship Gloucester.

2. Alleged failure to rescue those who had leaped into the flaming sea.

3. Responsibility for the accident.

4. Alleged action by some members of the crew in tearing life preservers from women and drying men and women off from the lifeboats.

5. Alleged lack of discipline among the crew and alleged lack of proper equipment, sheets being used for bandages.

6. Alleged disregard of relatives trying to find survivors on the rescue ship Gloucester.

Severe condemnation, with such characterizations as "gross negligence" and "gambling with lives," is made by Captain Charles M. Lyons, Chief Federal Steamboat Inspector at the conclusion of a preliminary investigation. Meanwhile, Vice President D. R. McNeill, of the steamship line, was defending the crew of the Fairfax against criticism.

Interrogation of Captain A. H. Brooks, of the Fairfax revealed, according to Captain Lyons, that Brooks did not at any time send out an S. O. S. neither did he make any effort to notify the coast guard bases, telling the inspectors, according to Captain Lyons, that he had the situation in hand and did everything possible.

OFFERED NO AID

"At no time," said Captain Lyons, "did coastguard officials know that there were fourteen passengers of the Fairfax, including several women, missing. Those people were in the water and no one could swear that they were not alive. The failure to call the coast guard for these two reasons—the possibility of rescuing those in the water and to get the injured in as fast as possible—is what I would call gross negligence of the worst sort. Captain Brooks had no right to gamble with lives."

Quartet Music Will Feature Meeting Here

The Clarksburg Good Will quartet will be one of the features of the Pickaway-co Sunday school convention in the evening session here today when a sacred program will be rendered.

The quartet's part of the program will commence at 7:45 p. m. when the following songs will be sung:

"The Holy City," "Beyond The Open Gates," a solo by Mr. Radcliff; "The Old Church," "Negro Spirituals, "Steal Away" and "Lord, I Want To Be A Christian"; a solo, "Open The Gates Of The Temple" by Mr. Cleary; "The Wayside Cross" and "The Bells Of St. Mary's."

The Good Will quartet is composed of Coyt E. Cleary, Elzie Radcliffe, Pryor B. Timmons, Charles T. Carter and Mrs. Charles T. Carter, accompanist.

75,000 FANS ARE EXPECTED TO SEE FIGHT

Sharkey and Schmeling Both In Perfect Trim for Championship Bout.

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Jack Sharkey, the American ex-sailor, and Max Schmeling, the "German Dempsey," will battle tonight in a ring at Yankee stadium before 75,000 fight fans for the right to occupy the throne abdicated two years ago by Gene Tunney when he retired the undefeated champion of the world.

IN SECLUSION

The emotional, highly geared and tempermental Sharkey and the cool, calculating Schmeling were in seclusion this morning as they endured the nerve-shattering ordeal of waiting for the bell. They will be seen in public for a brief time at 2 o'clock this afternoon when they weigh in officially at the stadium. Sharkey probably will weigh about 197 pounds, Schmeling 187.

Favorable weather was forecast for tonight. The day dawned cloudy but there was no hint of rain in the atmosphere. The weather man, after scanning the skies, was optimistic. The forecast was "increasing cloudiness." In the event of rain, the big bout would be postponed until tomorrow night.

ODDS FOR JACK

Eleventh-hour betting odds were 8 to 5 with Sharkey the favorite. Wagering was extremely light in view of the tremendous interest the fight has aroused.

Both Sharkey and Schmeling were conservative in their final statements. Neither would divulge their plan of battle.

"I hope to win in clean-cut fashion," said Sharkey, who was as tempermental as a prima donna with his supreme test only a few hours away. "I expect to stop Schmeling in an early round if he can't absorb punishment."

Schmeling, serene and confident, said:

"I am in the best of shape. I will do my best. I never make

FAYETTE BOND ISSUE INVALID

Supreme Court Rules City Did Not Advertise Hospital In Right Way.

WASHINGTONC. H. (Spl.)—Fayette-co's $100,000 bond issue for a new county hospital was held invalid by the Ohio supreme court in a decision handed down Wednesday.

The bond issue was approved by the majority of the voters at the last November election but the county commissioners refused to issue the bonds on the grounds that proper notice of election as required by law had not been given.

Proponents of the hospital contended that although the election had probably been advertised in daily newspapers as required by law that every citizen had sufficient notice because of the intensive campaign waged for the bond issue.

The action of the court means that the proposal as approved by the voters last fall, is dead, and that there will be no county hospital unless another election is held.

REV. ALEXANDER KEPT VERY BUSY

Rev. William Alexander of South Bloomfield, has been very busy filling speaking engagements as he spoke before the Kiwanis Club at Portsmouth, O., Wednesday noon and before the Young Peoples' Society at the country home of Dr. Micklethwaite, Tuesday night. On next Tuesday he speaks before the Rotary Club at Logan, and on Wednesday evening before a club in Chillicothe.

Re-elected G. O. P. Head in Pennsylvania

State Treasurer Edward Martin has been re-elected to the chairmanship of the Republican party in Pennsylvania by a wide majority. The forces of Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for the Governorship, were routed even in the latter's home county of Pike.

CROP OUTLOOK IS NOT GOOD

Unseasonably Dry Weather Places Prospects Below Average In Ohio.

Unseasonably dry, cool weather prevailed in most sections of Ohio during much of May. Light to heavy frosts occurred in many areas late in the month, causing some damage to early corn and gardens, especially on low lands. As a result of these unfavorable weather conditions, crop prospects declined during the past month and on June 1 most crops were below average for this time of the year.

Winter wheat in Ohio gives promise of 24,302,000 bushels, a much smalled crop than last year and over 10 per cent smaller than average. Wheat condition is quite spotted over the State. In general the western third of Ohio has the poorest wheat prospects, with the west-central area averaging considerably lower than any other section. For the State as a whole, wheat conditions average 64 per cent of normal against 90 per cent one year ago and 76 per cent, the ten-year average for June 1.

Rye prospects indicate a crop of 870,000 bushels, which is but little less than production last year.

Oats in the central and southern parts of Ohio are quite poor but prospects are fair in the northern third of the State. Condition averaged 74 on June1 compared with the ten-year average of 81 per cent. Barley, with a condition of 76 per cent, is 7 points below average.

The hay outlook in Ohio at present is rather discouraging due to prolonged drought. Hay crops on the whole average but 62 per cent of normal compared with 88 one year ago and 80, the ten-year average. Clover is heading rather short and many fields are quite weedy. Pastures on June 1 were very poor, with an average condition of only 66 per cent against 92 one year ago and 85, the ten-year average.

Fruit crops in Ohio will show a very light production this season. Freezes this Spring did a great deal of damage to apples and conditions June 1 indicated about one-fourth of a crop. No forecast on apple production will be made until next month. Severe winter-injury to peaches in northern Ohio together with damage from spring freezes in most parts of the State give an outlook for only 234,000 bushels, the smallest crop in over 15 years. Prospects for pears indicate only 130,000 bushels, the smallest crop since 1921.

FORMER FAYETTE JUDGE SUICIDES

A. C. Patton, 70, former probate judge of Fayette-co, and former mayor of Washington C. H., ended his life by sending a bullet into his head as he stood on the banks of Paint Creek in the northern part of that city Tuesday afternoon. Ill health is given for the cause of his action.

PRESS ORDERS REPRISAL FOR "JAKE" LINGLE

Mob of 655 In Jail While Leaders of Chicago's Gangs Hunt For Safety.

CHICAGO, June 12—Gangland was in retreat today from the onslaughts of armed police squads which are waging a grim war of reprisal for the death of Alfred ("Jake") Lingle, veteran police reporter.

With 655 men in custody as the result of an all-night round-up, leaders of the underworld were conspicious by their absence.

PICK DETECTIVES

Three picked squads of detectives, replacing three equally-well chosen squads which had worked throughout the night, today found the usual haunts of underworld untenanted and deserted. Each squad was headed by a lieutenant or sergeant with a record of having "gotten" his man in more than one gang encounter.

Reports from New York and other cities indicated that the real leaders of Chicago's deadly murder syndicates were leaving for more comfortable localities in the face of the renewed police drive, supported as it is by an aroused public sentiment.

As a result of the overnight raids, police stations in all parts of the city were filled with prisoners, who were held for investigation.

In contrast to this the near North Side, stronghold of the Al Io gang, the West Side and the districts, territory disputed by the Druggan-Lake combine and the Genna Gang, and the South side where the Joe Saltis gang held forth, presented a scene of unaccustomed quiet. Pool rooms, "drink" parlors and other "hang-outs" were closed or virtually unpatronized.

HAVE RECORDS

Heading the details assigned to ferret out gangsters and hoodlums are men with notable records for having beaten them at their own game. Leading one day squad was Sergeant Frank Reynolds, who has killed 11 criminals in battle. Of the other squad leaders, Lieutenants Al Booth and Andrew Barry each have accounted for six men; Lieutenants Walter Stege and Patrick O'Connell for five each, and Lieutenant William O'Sak for four.

Spurred on by unanimous demands by the press and civic bodies for their resignations, Police Commissioner William H. Russell and Deputy Commissioner of Detectives John Stege have thrown their entire forces into the warfare of extermination.

"Will these be sufficient?" was the question being asked today and even Commissioner Russell was doubtful.

"The whole A. E. F. could not stop them," he told one questioner, referring to raketeers.

With newspaper editorials suggesting martial law, the American Legion today offered the aid of its ex-service men, accustomed to the sinisted business of death.

M'CLARREN IS GIVEN U. S. MAIL CONTRACT

To Handle Carriage Between Circleville, Amanda, Stoutsville, Lancaster.

Lewis McClarren, well known taxicab operator, has been given the contract for one year to haul mail from Circleville to Stoutsville, Amanda and Lancaster, according to an announcement made Thursday. The contract will start July 1.

At the present time McClarren is hauling the mail under a sub contract from E. E. Porter.

The job is to go to Lancaster in the morning to haul mail that direction and in the afternoon the trip is made from here with mail to Lancaster.

CHIEF RECOVERS MISSING SEDAN

Chief Police W. H. Warner recovered the Ford sedan belonging to Jack Cane, a workman at the Sturm-Dillard Gravel plant, which was stolen late Wednesday evening on the Stumpy Lane between the Washington and Dawson pikes Thursday morning.

The car had been stolen from the gravel plant and had been abandoned on this pike.

75,000 FANS ARE EXPECTED TO SEE FIGHT

Sharkey and Schmeling Both In Perfect Trim for Championship Bout.

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Jack Sharkey, the American ex-sailor, and Max Schmeling, the "German Dempsey," will battle tonight in a ring at Yankee stadium before 75,000 fight fans for the right to occupy the throne abdicated two years ago by Gene Tunney when he retired the undefeated champion of the world.

IN SECLUSION

The emotional, highly geared and tempermental Sharkey and the cool, calculating Schmeling were in seclusion this morning as they endured the nerve-shattering ordeal of waiting for the bell. They will be seen in public for a brief time at 2 o'clock this afternoon when they weigh in officially at the stadium. Sharkey probably will weigh about 197 pounds, Schmeling 187.

Favorable weather was forecast for tonight. The day dawned cloudy but there was no hint of rain in the atmosphere. The weather man, after scanning the skies, was optimistic. The forecast was "increasing cloudiness." In the event of rain, the big bout would be postponed until tomorrow night.

ODDS FOR JACK

Eleventh-hour betting odds were 8 to 5 with Sharkey the favorite. Wagering was extremely light in view of the tremendous interest the fight has aroused.

Both Sharkey and Schmeling were conservative in their final statements. Neither would divulge their plan of battle.

"I hope to win in clean-cut fashion," said Sharkey, who was as tempermental as a prima donna with his supreme test only a few hours away. "I expect to stop Schmeling in an early round if he can't absorb punishment."

Schmeling, serene and confident, said:

"I am in the best of shape. I will do my best. I never make

FAYETTE BOND ISSUE INVALID

Supreme Court Rules City Did Not Advertise Hospital In Right Way.

WASHINGTONC. H. (Spl.)—Fayette-co's $100,000 bond issue for a new county hospital was held invalid by the Ohio supreme court in a decision handed down Wednesday.

The bond issue was approved by the majority of the voters at the last November election but the county commissioners refused to issue the bonds on the grounds that proper notice of election as required by law had not been given.

Proponents of the hospital contended that although the election had probably been advertised in daily newspapers as required by law that every citizen had sufficient notice because of the intensive campaign waged for the bond issue.

The action of the court means that the proposal as approved by the voters last fall, is dead, and that there will be no county hospital unless another election is held.

On next Tuesday he speaks before the Rotary Club at Logan, and on Wednesday evening before a club in Chillicothe.

Re-elected G. O. P. Head in Pennsylvania

State Treasurer Edward Martin has been re-elected to the chairmanship of the Republican party in Pennsylvania by a wide majority. The forces of Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for the Governorship, were routed even in the latter's home county of Pike.

CROP OUTLOOK IS NOT GOOD

Unseasonably Dry Weather Places Prospects Below Average In Ohio.

Unseasonably, dry, cool weather prevailed in most sections of Ohio during much of May. Light to heavy frosts occurred in many areas late in the month, causing some damage to early corn and gardens, especially on low lands. As a result of these unfavorable weather conditions, crop prospects declined during the past month and on June 1 most crops were below average for this time of the year.

Winter wheat in Ohio gives promise of 24,302,000 bushels, a much smalled crop than last year and over 10 per cent smaller than average. Wheat condition is quite spotted over the State. In general the western third of Ohio has the poorest wheat prospects, with the west-central area averaging considerably lower than any other section. For the State as a whole, wheat conditions average 64 per cent of normal against 90 per cent one year ago and 76 per cent, the ten-year average for June 1.

Rye prospects indicate a crop of 870,000 bushels, which is but little less than production last year.

Oats in the central and southern parts of Ohio are quite poor but prospects are fair in the northern third of the State. Condition averaged 74 on June1 compared with the ten-year average of 81 per cent. Barley, with a condition of 76 per cent, is 7 points below average.

The hay outlook in Ohio at present is rather discouraging due to prolonged drought. Hay crops on the whole average but 62 per cent of normal compared with 88 one year ago and 80, the ten-year average. Clover is heading rather short and many fields are quite weedy. Pastures on June 1 were very poor, with an average condition of only 66 per cent against 92 one year ago and 85, the ten-year average.

Fruit crops in Ohio will show a very light production this season. Freezes this Spring did a great deal of damage to apples and conditions June 1 indicated about one-fourth of a crop. No forecast on apple production will be made until next month. Severe winter-injury to peaches in northern Ohio together with damage from spring freezes in most parts of the State give an outlook for only 234,000 bushels, the smallest crop in over 15 years. Prospects for pears indicate only 130,000 bushels, the smallest crop since 1921.

FORMER FAYETTE JUDGE SUICIDES

A. C. Patton, 70, former probate judge of Fayette-co, and former mayor of Washington C. H., ended his life by sending a bullet into his head as he stood on the banks of Paint Creek in the northern part of that city Tuesday afternoon. Ill health is given for the cause of his action.

PRESS ORDERS REPRISAL FOR "JAKE" LINGLE

Mob of 655 In Jail While Leaders of Chicago's Gangs Hunt For Safety.

CHICAGO, June 12—Gangland was in retreat today from the onslaughts of armed police squads which are waging a grim war of reprisal for the death of Alfred ("Jake") Lingle, veteran police reporter.

With 655 men in custody as the result of an all-night round-up, leaders of the underworld were conspicious by their absence.

PICK DETECTIVES

Three picked squads of detectives, replacing three equally-well chosen squads which had worked throughout the night, today found the usual haunts of undesirables untenanted and deserted. Each squad was headed by a lieutenant or sergeant with a record of having "gotten" his man in more than one gang encounter.

Reports from New York and other cities indicated that the real leaders of Chicago's deadly murder syndicates were leaving for more comfortable localities in the face of the renewed police drive, supported as it is by an aroused public sentiment.

As a result of the overnight raids, police stations in all parts of the city were filled with prisoners, who were held for investigation.

In contrast to this the near North Side, stronghold of the Aiello gang! the West Side and Valley districts, territory disputed by the Druggan-Lake combine and the Genna Gang, and the South Side, where the Joe Saltis gang holds forth, presented a scene of unaccustomed quiet. Pool rooms, "soft drink" parlors and other "hang outs" were closed or virtually unpatronized.

HAVE RECORDS

Heading the details assigned to ferret out gangsters and hoodlums are men with notable records for having beaten them at their own game. Leading one day squad was Sergeant Frank Reynolds, who has killed 11 criminals in battle. Of the other squad leaders, Lieutenants Al Booth and Andrew Barry each have accounted for six men; Lieutenants Walter Storms and Patrick O'Connell for five each, and Lieutenant William Cusak for four.

Spurred on by unanimous demands by the press and civic bodies for their resignations, Police Commissioner William H. Russell and Deputy Commissioner of Detectives John Stege have thrown their entire forces into the warfare of extermination.

"Will these be sufficient?" was the question being asked today and even Commissioner Russell was doubtful.

"The whole A. E. F. could not stop them," he told one questioner, referring to raketeers.

With newspaper editorial suggesting martial law, the American Legion today offered the aid of its ex-service men, accustomed to the sinisted business of death.

M'CLARREN IS GIVEN U. S. MAIL CONTRACT

To Handle Carriage Between Circleville, Amanda, Stoutsville, Lancaster.

Lewis McClarren, well known taxicab operator, has been given the contract for one year to haul mail from Circleville to Stoutsville, Amanda and Lancaster, according to an announcement made Thursday. The contract will start July 1.

At the present time McClarren is hauling the mail under a sub contract from E. E. Porter.

The job is to go to Lancaster in the morning to haul mail this direction and in the afternoon the trip is made from here with mail to Lancaster.

CHIEF RECOVERS MISSING SEDAN

Chief Police W. H. Warner recovered the Ford sedan belonging to Jack Cane, a workman at the Sturm-Dillard Gravel plant, which was stolen late Wednesday evening on the Stumpy Lane between the Washington and Dawson pike Thursday morning.

The car had been stolen from the gravel plant and had been abandoned on this pike.

BOND $50,000

The bond of Mrs. Georgia Barr, who was appointed county treasurer following the death of her late husband, T. Dell Barr, is $50,000 and not $25,000 as announced. Two casulty companies, The Ohio Casualty Co., of Hamilton, O., and the Commonwealth Casualty Co., of Philadelphia are the bonding firms.

RHEUMATISM PAIN NEEDLESS

Relief in 7 to 10 minutes

am very glad to praise ... MUSCLETONE because of the wonderful relief it gave me. I have suffered pains in my feet for many years, with very little relief from the various remedies I tried. I saw your MUSCLETONE advertisement and bought a bottle at once and was relieved. The very first application brought me relief and I soon found that I would not be without a bottle of your wonderful MUSCLETONE in my home. I hope others who suffer with their feet will write a letter and get relief from their pains by using your remedy. ... Miller, 30 12th Ave., Columbus, Ohio.

tried almost every remedy ... relieve the pain and swelling, but ... which I could find ... to give up ... MUSCLETONE ... vertised on your paper ... a bottle. I have only used ... of it, and I can now do ... work and am so glad ... which will keep ... ETONE on hand ... JOHN HUBBARD, ... ister Ave., Columbus, O.

you honestly want complete and ... ing relief from the pains of rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica or neuritis ... Science has proven these terms needless. A new way has been found to end muscular agony and stress so quickly that it seems almost miraculous. Pain actually stops in 7 to 10 minutes and may be forever gone. Chronic cases and those ... severe will of course require continued treatment for a while. Yet ... less than a single bottle is often enough for complete relief even in ... conditions of long standing.

This new discovery is known as MUSCLETONE. It was found by Dr. Chapin, a famous physician of New York. Now almost a million people have used the MUSCLETONE treatment.

The amazing success of MUSCLETONE is due to the fact that it neutralizes accumulated toxins, absorbs them and relieves congested tissues. Pain goes. Joints become limber. Yet you take no violent drugs to upset the stomach. Nothing is taken internally. MUSCLETONE is applied directly to the part affected. It is bland and cooling and soothing.

We urge only that you make this test. MUSCLETONE is now obtainable at any good drug store. Buy it today. Use one-half the bottle and if you are not entirely satisfied, return the remaining half to the druggist and he will refund your money. The price is $1.00.

JAILBREAK IS AVERTED

Warden With Guards at Joliet Catch Prisoners In Tunnel Near Freedom.

JOLIET, June 12—A wholesale jailbreak from the state penitentiary was averted today when Warden H. C. Hill and several guards thwarted one of the boldest attempts ever made by convicts to gain liberty.

A group of convicts were caught digging a tunnel from the chair-shop to the north wall. They had burrowed fourteen feet from the shop and but three feet more remained between them and liberty when guards seized the plotters and threw them into solitary confinement.

The plot and tunnel were discovered two weeks ago but prison officials allowed the plot to develop in order that they might capture every man involved.

Five convicts were involved in the jailbreak plot, Warden Hill revealed.

This Woman In 4 Weeks Lost 19 Pounds of Fat

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

"Gentlemen: I first saw your advertisement in a Billings, Montana paper and decided to try Kruschen Salts.

I started taking them every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce.

I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give "Kruschen Salts" a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 256 lbs. and at present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 239 lbs. And I must say, I feel better in every way, besides looking much better. Kruschen Salts had a decided effect upon the quantity of food I took and stimulated my desire to greater activity.

I have recommended Kruschen Salts to many of my friends, in fact, have a number of them taking Kruschen Salts.

May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. I am sure it will convince any one."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts four weeks costs but 85c at Hamilton & Ryan's or any drug-store in America.—Adv.

There Must Be a Reason For Sohio's Popularity

When the great army of Ohio Chevrolet drivers registers such an overwhelming preference for Sohio Ethyl, it must mean that this modern motor fuel has proved its superiority in powering Chevrolet motors.

Perhaps it's Sohio's smooth, eager knockless power; or the fact that motors run cooler on Sohio Ethyl; or that Sohio furnishes more miles per gallon . . . perhaps it's all these good qualities combined that have made Sohio Ethyl the outstanding choice of Ohio motorists. Try it in your car . . . fill up at the Red-White-and-Blue Sohio sign, anywhere in Ohio.

This Woman In 4 Weeks Lost 19 Pounds of Fat

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

"Gentlemen: I first saw your advertisement in a Billings, Montana paper and decided to try Kruschen Salts.

I started taking them every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce.

I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give "Kruschen Salts" a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 256 lbs. and at present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 239 lbs. And I must say, I feel better in every way, besides looking much better. Kruschen Salts had a decided effect upon the quantity of food I took and stimulated my desire to greater activity.

I have recommended Kruschen Salts to many of my friends, in fact, have a number of them taking Kruschen Salts.

May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. I am sure it will convince any one."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts four weeks costs but 85c at Hamilton & Ryan's or any drug-store in America.—Adv.

Chevrolet owners prefer Sohio 3½ to 1 over any other gasoline!

MORE than 14,000 Chevrolet owners throughout Ohio were interviewed face to face. More than 9,000 of these stated a definite preference for one brand of gasoline or another . . . Sohio Ethyl lead all others with a vote of 2,697 . . . the next most popular brand scoring only 770!

That gives you a quick picture of results in a recent survey conducted by R. L. Polk & Company, an organization having no connection with any gasoline producer or distributor. Here's the Chevrolet score card:

Statewide Gasoline Survey—Chevrolet Owners in Ohio

Number of Chevrolet Owners Interviewed—14,184—Number Stating Brand Preference 9,401—Where Interviewed—Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Dayton, Akron, Canton, Youngstown, Lima, Toledo, Portsmouth, Zanesville.

GASOLINE USED	NO. PREFERRING	PERCENT OF PREFERENCES	RATE OF PREFERENCE FOR SOHIO
SOHIO	2,697	28.68	.....
2nd Best	770	8.19	3.50 to 1
3rd Best	749	7.97	3.60 to 1
4th Best	598	6.36	4.51 to 1
5th Best—Red Crown	528	5.62	5.10 to 1
6th Best	430	4.57	6.27 to 1
133 Other Brands—Each less than 4.01% of total designated.

The above figures are taken from original records of a survey of Ohio motorists made by R. L. Polk & Company, which have been audited by me, and are certified as authentic.

There Must Be a Reason For Sohio's Popularity

When the great army of Ohio Chevrolet drivers registers such an overwhelming preference for Sohio Ethyl, it must mean that this modern motor fuel has proved its superiority in powering Chevrolet motors.

Perhaps it's Sohio's smooth, eager knockless power; or the fact that motors run cooler on Sohio Ethyl; or that Sohio furnishes more miles per gallon . . . perhaps it's all these good qualities combined that have made Sohio Ethyl the outstanding choice of Ohio motorists. Try it in your car . . . fill up at the Red-White-and-Blue Sohio sign, anywhere in Ohio.

UNEMPLOYMENT STATISTICS EXPECTED IN SHORT TIME

BY ROBERT S. THORNBURGH.

WASHINGTON.--Within a week or possibly two, census supervisors in most big centers of population will have made public figures for unemployment, which has been estimated variously from 2,000,000 to 5,000,000 or more.

Commerce department officials said the preliminary announcement will include information only as to the group of workers in the offices, crafts and otherwise who are able bodied, are seeking work but who are unable to find employment

Questions asked by the census enumerators also included those who were unable to work because of illness or injuries, and those voluntarily unemployed.

Census officials did not care to make any prediction as to what the unemployment census would show They declared, however, that regardless of the figures it would prove invaluable in the government's effort to assist business back to normal conditions and likewise would be helpful to industrialists in the ability to put their finger on the trades and the sections of the country most affected.

It is a foregone conclusion, of course, that the bulk of the unemployment is in the industrial areas of the large cities. There are indications, however, of an improvement. For instance federal reserve board figures made public today showed only a one per cent drop in retail sales for May and but 3 per cent for the five months as compared to last year when business was at a peak

There are other indicators pointing to better business and the consensus of opinion appears to be that 1930 will prove very close to a normal year, taking as a basis the average between 1920 and 1929. In 1928 and 1929 there were abnormal conditions of prosperity and when this year is compared to the latter, particularly, there is an apparent condition of depression. In many respects, however, the first five months of 1930 compare favorably to 1928 and preceding years

The reaction towards substantial improvement may not come before fall or even winter, but there is every reason to believe that 1931 will find the United States back in the "hit and run" column steadily moving forward into prosperous conditions.

Officials believe that termination of the tariff fight and either passage or defeat of the bill will go far to reassuring business. There is an apparent lukewarmness to the present bill in some administration circles. One official said frankly he did not believe there would be much difference whether the bill passed or failed. He declared that the good features offset the bad. This official did not anticipate any appreciable increase in the cost of living as a result of the bill, nor severe retaliation against American exports from abroad. He thought the important thing about the tariff bill was to get it out of the way, and as quickly as possible.

Theatres

AT THE CLIFTONA

"Children of Pleasure," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer singing and dancing romance of Tin Pan Alley, will open Friday at the Cliftona Theatre, with a cast which includes Lawrence Gray, Wynne Gibson, Helen Johnson, Benny Rubin, Kenneth Thompson, Lee Kohlmar and May Boley

The picture was adapted by Richard Schayer from the play "The Song Writer" by Crane Wilbur Harry Beaumont, producer of the successful "The Broadway Melody" directed.

Report has it the picture concerns the romance of a Broadway song writer with the daughter of a millionaire and revolves about the conflict between class distinction The settings are laid in the homes of society, in Broadway music publishing offices, on vaudeville stages and in night clubs and are said to have been constructed without regard for expense. The interiors were done in a modernistic motif and contain a number of novel features among which is a fireplace which burns quicksilver and which report has it will be used for the first time on the screen in this production. The effect is produced by vertical bars of radiating light and heat made by long glass tubes in which glowing mercury vapor is generated by an electric current.

AT THE METROPOLITAN

Acclaimed by an enthusiastic audience as perhaps the finest circus dialogue and singing picture ever shown here, "Swing High," a musical melodrama of the big top in 1875, in which Pathe features sixteen notable stage and screen stars, is showing with exceptional success at the Metropolitan theatre Finely directed by Joseph Santley, the various roles capably enacted by the principal players, the dialogue crisp, the story novel, the song numbers tuneful, and the various scenes vibrant with color and action, "Swing High" should delight every picture fan.

While there are sixteen notable stage and screen stars in the cast, the principal roles were cleverly portrayed by Helen Twelvetrees, Fred Scott, Dorothy Burgess, Ben Turpin, Chester Conklin, Bryant Washburn, George Fawcett, Stepin Fetchit, John Sheehan, Robert Edeson, Nick Stuart, Daphne Pollard and Sally Star The six songs written especially for this production as well as the negro choruses are well rendered and wholly satisfying. From every standpoint, "Swing High" is far above the ordinary talking and musical screen entertainment.

AT THE GRAND

"The Long, Long Trail," with inimitable Hoot Gibson in the leading role begins at the Grand Teatre Thursday and Friday evenings and will also run Saturday.

The picture is full of action, both thrilling and entertaining and is a crashing western romance against a colorful background

The first chapter of "The Jade Box" is also on the program Friday evening.

SHIP PASSENGERS MUST OBEY CAPT.

MARSEILLES—If passengers disobey the orders of the ship's captain and then lose their lives, can their families claim damages? This is the question that has recently come up before the courts in this city, following an incident which occured last year on board the liner "General Jonnart" during a voyage from Algiers to Marseilles.

The ship encountered such heavy storms that the captain gave orders for everyone to go below and remain in their cabins. Twelve of the passengers (three of them Frenchmen and nine natives) disobeyed and remained on deck to watch the big waves breaking over the vessel. One large wave swept them all over board and the twelve people were drowned.

The families of the three lost Frenchmen are now claiming compensation of the company which contends that it cannot be responsible since the passengers in question failed to obey the captain.

TEMPERANCE

Frequently in these latter years level-headed and well-intentioned observers of the liquor situation have tried to step in between excited wets and drys and tell them that what we're after, and what we all ought to be able to agree on, is Temperance.

For their pains, they have usually been ignored. Often they have been jumped on by one side or the other, sometimes by both. Fanatical wets are not interested in temperance. Fanatical drys are inclined to regard any proposal except absolute teetotalism as wicked and treasonable.

George W. Wickersham, leader of the American bar, and chairman of President Hoover's law enforcement commission, will be abused likewise for venturing to propose this simple truth. Yet he undoubtedly represents a large and growing body of honest and intelligent citizens. And possibly the time has come when such a proposal, from such a proponent, can gain a hearing.

Education and persuasion, he declares, may accomplish more in liquor reform than force and harsh penalities. Heavy fines and imprisonment are not accomplishing their purpose. He pleads for another mode of attack.

Education as to the value of temperance almost ceased when the prohibition amendment was obtained. Reformers quit reforming. The long course of demonstration of the evils of the use of intoxicating liquor which had led to the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment was abandoned." The need of instruction and persuasion aiming at a "maximum of temperance" was forgotten. The human touch was lost, along with the logical method. Official severity was substituted for human appeal. The law was left to operate in a sort of vacuum. So we have the present situation.

And now, before we do anything about the Amendment or the Volstead Act, will somebody kindly start a real Temperance movement?

A COLORFUL GOVERNOR

What the governor of North Carolina said to the governor of South Carolina on a historic occassion is well known, but nobody seems to know what the governor of another sovereign commonwealth said to the governor of Louisana when the latter received him and his staff attired—i. e., the latter—in a suit of underwear.

The addiction of Governor Long to unconventional apparel is well known. His formal reception of a dignified German delegation in a suit of gorgeous pajamas has been trumpeted throughout the world. He is a regular Madame Du Barry for using his bedroom as a public reception room, and goes beyond that famous lady in the style and hue of his dress.

All this, which shocks some old-fashioned persons, is really entertaining and refreshing in a world that tries to cramp men's satorial style. He may yet turn out to be a leader in masculine fashions. Haven't men, anyway, as much right as women to wear weird pajamas and suchlike things socially and publicly?

Governor Long simply doesn't go far enough. Let him wear those pajamas on the beach, and pose in his underwear—which we hope is colored—in some store window or art gallery, and he may do much to enfranchise his sex. Future generations may say of him, "It was Huey that put the hue in clothes."

MEXICAN HEALTH AND CENSUS

Mexico has just taken a national census and finds that its population has increased 14.4 percent in the last nine years. Heavy immigration into the United States —500,000 in nine years — was thought to have held down Mexican gains. Other factors, however, have more than counteracted the movement out of the country.

The Mexican birth rate remains high. The death rate has been greatly lowered. Better sanitation and hygiene, especially preventive action taken against typhus and smallpox—diseases that used to cause destructive epidemics and take a heavy toll of life — have been particularly effective in lessening mortality.

Mexico is to be congratulated for making this sort of progress.

Susceptibility to Mumps

Mumps usually occurs in children of from five to fifteen years of age. There seems to be decreased susceptibility before five and after fifteen years of age. Mumps in adults up to the age of thirty, however, is not rare.

A TRIFLE WEAK

"WHERE'S EMILY?"
by CAROLYN WELLS

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE.

PREPARATIONS are being made for the marriage of lovely Emily Duane to Rodney Sayre, upstanding, young New Englander, at her home, "Knollwood," in exclusive Hilldale Park. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER II.

WHEN Emily's parents had both been killed in a motor accident, Mrs. Bell, as the only available relative, had come to Knollwood as a matter of course.

And as a matter of course, she was still there, but the direction of the establishment was entirely at the will or whim of imperious, efficient Emily, personification of personality and able exponent of the younger generation.

Not that Emily was a flapper. She was twenty-two, well educated, well mannered and a thoroughbred.

But impulsive and high-tempered, she needed a restraining hand now and then and there was none to stretch out to her.

She was sole heir to her father's enormous fortune, which was judiciously attended to for her by able trustees.

She did whatever she chose and she had whatever she wanted.

In fact she lacked nothing but parental love and guidance, and this, some said, was lucky for the parents.

Not that Emily was wild or eccentric.

But she had little sense of moderation and once bent on a thing would achieve it at any cost.

And she had the elusive charm ambiguously termed personality.

With it, she could make almost any one bend to her will or grant her request.

It made her a favorite and a belle. She had hosts of friends and no enemies, unless some envious or jealous young people were to be counted.

Her home, the great and beautiful house her father had built up among the Ramapo Hills, was filled with everything that conduced to comfort and happiness, and Emily and Aunt Judy lived in the utmost peace and harmony.

School, travel, friends, social success, had all come to the girl in turn, and now she was about to marry Rodney Sayre and a house party was gathered for the wedding festivities.

Although at the time of her arrival in Emily's home, Aunt Judy had been an old-fashioned, even provincial sort, her niece had changed all that.

She had ordained that Mrs. Bell should do at all times and in all things exactly as Emily dictated and not otherwise, that strict adherence to this plan of campaign would make for happiness and contentment, while any dereliction from such a path would lead straight to chaos and misery.

So clearly was this set forth and so emphatic was the insistence upon it that Mrs. Bell saw at once she must acquiesce or depart.

In her wisdom she chose the former course, continued in that course, and all went very well indeed.

For Emily was not a bit difficult to get along with if she had her own way. And her way, though sometimes amazing and even incomprehensible, was never in line of any wrongdoing.

Her flapperhood was hoydenish but not reprehensible. Her love affairs were hectic and frequent, but short-lived. Her fads and hobbies, though often expensive, were harmless.

And if she was criticized by some of her neighbors, she was beloved by many more.

Neighbors were numerous, though not very near.

Hilldale Park was a gesture that followed the building of the Duane house, and the exclusive reservation contained now many beautiful estates that spread out from Emily's home in all directions.

The whole region was more or less wild, and strictly kept so. Main motor roads there were, and some paved sidewalks, but there were also many places whose walks were footpaths through the woods or winding ways skirting ravines of picturesque beauty.

The dwellers were largely artists or lovers of the arts, most of them wealthy and most of them young or trying to keep so.

Fads were taken up, tried out and dropped in rapid succession. Philanthropies likewise, also charities.

A new hospital, but recently opened, was the pride of the community, and a new Hindu teacher, Swami Lal Singh, was the current excitement.

With her usual impulsiveness, Emily had thrown herself into this metaphysical movement, had raved over the strong, silent Hindu, and had even added a codicil to her will for the bestowal of a sizable gift on his cause, when with characteristic suddenness she had decided to be married at once.

She had known and loved Rodney Sayre more than a year, but had refused to give up her freedom until this season, when she quite took his breath away by proposing an immediate wedding.

Sayre, a worth-while chap, had a slight tinge of reserve and decorum left over from some old New England ancestor, and he was really the very one for Emily to marry, for he truly loved her and he had great tact and discretion in managing her.

Meekly, Emily had asked him to help her and teach her in the ways of calmness and dignity, for she knew, she said, that she was too volatile and effervescent to be a real companion to him otherwise.

And in moments of meekness or humility Emily was so bewitching that Sayre vowed he must learn of her, rather than the other way.

Emily was too restless to be beautiful, too excitable to be handsome.

She was pretty, of course—what girl isn't nowadays?—but as her friends averred, her charm lay in her personality.

Poor overworked word that means so much, yet is always constrained to mean more.

In Emily's case, it meant quick, vivid interest in persons and things, expressed by the most adorable little motions, unstudied, unself-conscious, but readily translated, quick, musical little exclamations, sudden, unexpected smiles, flashes of understanding eyes, queer little curves to her mouth—a thousand fascinating ways that meant Emily and nobody else.

She adored Sayre, but she teased him unmercifully, for, as she told him, his own good.

Rodney, understanding, never resented it, but smiled at her in his big-hearted way.

But, innately, he rather scorned the meretricious and tawdry side of the gay crowd they went with, and hoped after he and Emily were married they would be also, what is, or used to be, known as "settled down."

Not that he was a prig or a prude. He had no quarrel with the wildest escapades planned and carried out by his friends, but they sometimes failed to interest him. Yet he was so broad-minded and so really tolerant by nature that he never showed, or even felt, any annoyance at their pranks.

Burton Lamb, his chum, was the most irrepressible spirit of the crowd, so, as he and Sayre reacted on one another, it helped both of them.

Sayre was of the Viking type. Tall, fair and of magnificent physique, he bore himself with a swinging, easy grace that was one of the first things about him that attracted Emily.

"Most too big to stand in front of a fireplace," she had said, looking at him critically, "but just grand to hand you down the steps and into the car."

And at that speech Sayre had secretly determined to hand her into her car for the rest of his life.

And now the wedding was only about forty-eight hours away.

He was a bit disappointed at Emily's insistence that she would keep her maiden surname in accordance with the views of her modern coterie, but he thought too, that she might be saying that only to tease him, and in any case she should have her own way.

So truly did he understand and respect the character of his fiancee that he was more than willing to let her do exactly as she chose in minor matters, or what seemed to her minor matters.

And so, when the gay group in the lounge, as Emily preferred to call the great living room, were talking about the personality of his bride, Sayre smiled a little to himself to think how perfectly he understood that darling person, and how easily he could persuade her to fall in more completely with his ideas, should he choose to do so.

The house party included only the out-of-town members of the wedding procession. There would be other bridesmaids and ushers from Hilldale Park, also a matron of honor, whose home, the Ravines, was near by.

Pete Gibby, a most adaptable and chummy sort, was asked because he was engaged to Betty Bailey, the maid of honor.

Gibby fitted in with the crowd, as he could fit in anywhere, by means of his suavity and gay impudence.

Aunt Judy took to him at once, as she did to most of Emily's friends, and it pleased Pete to pretend that Aunt Judy had ousted Betty completely from his affections.

"Yes, Mrs. Bell," he said, sighing, "your personality is so marvelous, so perfect that I can't help wishing——"

He broke off abruptly, as one overcome by deep feeling, and just then Emily came into the room.

"Talking about personality!" she cried; "you must indeed be hard up for a subject of conversation! I'm glad I came in——"

"Meaning you think we'll talk about you?" asked Pete. "We do that when you're not in the room."

"Go right on," Emily said, "I don't mind a bit. I shan't be listening. Oh, girls, the bridesmaids' gifts have just come! Want yours now?"

"Straight off!" and Betty and Nell took the long slender white boxes Emily held out.

They contained cigarette-holders of an astonishing length and beauty. Of exquisite white enamel, with monogram in raised gold-work, they brought forth storms of approval and gratitude.

"One for you, too, Aunt Judy," for Emily never forgot the old lady she had rejuvenated and given a new interest in life.

"And I'm going to have another thrill out of my own present," Emily went on, as she perched herself on the arm of Rod's chair, and leaned against his shoulder.

Slowly she opened the jewel case that held the bridegroom's gift to her.

A long chain of diamonds, not large, but of faultless purity.

She let the necklace run through her fingers, like a small cascade of rippling light.

"Isn't it beautiful!" she sighed in an ecstasy of satisfaction at the lovely thing.

She flung it round her neck, and let it hang down over her dress, a sports frock of dark blue crepe.

"I put on this dark thing, so it would show up better," she explained, frankly looking about for admiration. "Isn't it exquisite? Oh, Rod, it is just too darling!"

She clasped Sayre to her, and gave him a most satisfactory demonstration of love and gratitude.

Building For the New Baby's Future Health

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

MOTHERHOOD is one of God's greatest gifts to the world. There isn't a home that can function properly without a mother. If she is sick, the whole family is handicapped. Motherhood means unselfish sacrifice, suffering, and very often ill health.

Young mothers have a better chance today than they had fifty years ago. Scientific care has greatly lessened the dangers of childbirth. No greater advance in the conservation of health and life has been made than in this field. Prenatal care has done much to lessen the dangers. Modern methods of obstetrics are making safe the life and health of mother and child.

The expectant mother needs expert attention and the best of care. Doctors have learned that she must have exercise, out-of-doors life and recreation. These are just as vital or even more important than at any other time of her life.

She should be protected and assisted in her family cares by every member of the family. It is the duty of husband, relatives and friends to give every aid possible in the most unobtrusive way.

It is best that the expectant mother should plan her own diet, just as she would at any other time. This must be done in order to preserve full health and vigor. She should eat such food as will give adequate fuel value, as well as body-building material.

After the fourth month there should be an increase in the amount of food taken. It is important to meet the demands made upon her by her burden. Body changes are carried on at a greater rate and she must have more protein food. Milk is of the highest value in this respect, while meat and eggs, because of their special qualities, are also very valuable.

Milk is rich in lime, an element often lacking in the diet. It is particularly imporatnt that the expectant mother, as well as the nursing mother, should take milk in liberal quantities, at least a quart every day.

Milk is lacking in iron, which is a very necessary mineral in the system. This may be had by eating meat, eggs and the green vegetables.

We must consider the vitamins also. Unless the food contains an abundance of the vitamins, mother and child are sure to suffer. To get these, if the child is to be healthy and strong, the mother must include in her daily diet one or more salads, and two liberal helpings of green vegetables. Among such vegetables are spinach, lettuce, cabbage, cauliflower, peas and beans.

She should eat, too, liberal amounts of bread and butter. She may well include preserves, honey and simple desserts. It is a good thing to take some refreshments between meals in order to make up the required food intake. These may include an orange, a whole grain cereal with cream, bouillon with egg yolk or milk and graham crackers.

All these things, together with a cheerful and calm spirit, should make for your well-being and that of your child. Calmness of spirit is half the battle. Modern enlightened care of mothers brings returns in life and health.

TEMPERANCE

Frequently in these latter years level-headed and well-intentioned observers of the liquor situation have tried to step in between excited wets and drys and tell them that what we're after, and what we all ought to be able to agree on, is Temperance.

For their pains, they have usually been ignored. Often they have been jumped on by one side or the other, sometimes by both. Fanatical wets are not interested in temperance. Fanatical drys are inclined to regard any proposal except absolute teetotalism as wicked and treasonable.

George W. Wickersham, leader of the American bar, and chairman of President Hoover's law enforcement commission, will be abused likewise for venturing to propose this simple truth. Yet he undoubtedly represents a large and growing body of honest and intelligent citizens. And possibly the time has come when such a proposal, from such a proponent, can gain a hearing.

Education and persuasion, he declares, may accomplish more in liquor reform than force and harsh penalities. Heavy fines and imprisonment are not accomplishing their purpose. He pleads for another mode of attack.

Education as to the value of temperance almost ceased when the prohibition amendment was obtained. Reformers quit reforming. "The long course of demonstration of the evils of the use of intoxicating liquor which had led to the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment was abandoned." The need of instruction and persuasion aiming at a "maximum of temperance" was forgotten. The human touch was lost, along with the logical method. Official severity was substituted for human appeal. The law was left to operate in a sort of vacuum. So we have the present situation.

And now, before we do anything about the Amendment or the Volstead Act, will somebody kindly start a real Temperance movement?

A COLORFUL GOVERNOR

What the governor of North Carolina said to the governor of South Carolina on a historic occassion is well known, but nobody seems to know what the governor of another sovereign commonwealth said to the governor of Louisana when the latter received him and his staff attired—i. e., the latter—in a suit of underwear.

The addiction of Governor Long to unconventional apparel is well known. His formal reception of a dignified German delegation in a suit of gorgeous pajamas has been trumpeted throughout the world. He is a regular Madame Du Barry for using his bedroom as a public reception room, and goes beyond that famous lady in the style and hue of his dress.

All this, which shocks some old-fashioned persons, is really entertaining and refreshing in a world that tries to cramp men's satorial style. He may yet turn out to be a leader in masculine fashions. Haven't men, anyway, as much right as women to wear weird pajamas and suchlike things socially and publicly?

Governor Long simply doesn't go far enough. Let him wear those pajamas on the beach, and pose in his underwear—which we hope is colored—in some store window or art gallery, and he may do much to enfranchise his sex. Future generations may say of him, "It was Huey that put the hue in clothes."

MEXICAN HEALTH AND CENSUS

Mexico has just taken a national census and finds that its population has increased 14.4 percent in the last nine years. Heavy immigration into the United States —500,000 in nine years — was thought to have held down Mexican gains. Other factors, however, have more than counteracted the movement out of the country.

The Mexican birth rate remains high. The death rate has been greatly lowered. Better sanitation and hygiene, especially preventive action taken against typhus and smallpox—diseases that used to cause destructive epidemics and take a heavy toll of life — have been particularly effective in lessening mortality.

Mexico is to be congratulated for making this sort of progress.

Susceptibility to Mumps

Mumps usually occurs in children of from five to fifteen years of age. There seems to be decreased susceptibility before five and after fifteen years of age. Mumps in adults up to the age of thirty, however, is not rare.

A TRIFLE WEAK

"WHERE'S EMILY?"
by CAROLYN WELLS

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE.

PREPARATIONS are being made for the marriage of lovely Emily Duane to Rodney Sayre, upstanding, young New Englander, at her home, "Knollwood," in exclusive Hilldale Park. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER II.

WHEN Emily's parents had both been killed in a motor accident, Mrs. Bell, as the only available relative, had come to Knollwood as a matter of course.

And as a matter of course, she was still there, but the direction of the establishment was entirely at the will or whim of imperious, efficient Emily, personification of personality and able exponent of the younger generation.

Not that Emily was a flapper. She was twenty-two, well educated, well mannered and a thoroughbred.

But impulsive and high-tempered, she needed a restraining hand now and then and there was none to stretch out to her.

She was sole heir to her father's enormous fortune, which was judiciously attended to for her by able trustees.

She did whatever she chose and she had whatever she wanted.

In fact she lacked nothing but parental love and guidance, and this, some said, was lucky for the parents.

Not that Emily was wild or eccentric.

But she had little sense of moderation and once bent on a thing would achieve it at any cost.

And she had the elusive charm ambiguously termed personality.

With it, she could make almost any one bend to her will or grant her request.

It made her a favorite and a belle. She had hosts of friends and no enemies, unless some envious or jealous young people were to be counted.

Her home, the great and beautiful house her father had built up among the Ramapo Hills, was filled with everyhing that conduced to comfort and happiness, and Emily and Aunt Judy lived in the utmost peace and harmony.

School, travel, friends, social success, had all come to the girl in turn, and now she was about to marry Rodney Sayre and a house party was gathered for the wedding festivities.

Although at the time of her arrival in Emily's home, Aunt Judy had been an old-fashioned, even provincial sort, her niece had changed all that.

She had ordained that Mrs. Bell should do at all times and in all things exactly as Emily dictated and not otherwise, that strict adherence to this plan of campaign would make for happiness and contentment, while any dereliction from such a path would lead straight to chaos and misery.

So clearly was this set forth and so emphatic was the insistence upon it that Mrs. Bell saw at once she must acquiesce or depart.

In her wisdom she chose the former course, continued in that course, and all went very well indeed.

For Emily was not a bit difficult to get along with if she had her own way. And her way, though sometimes amazing and even incomprehensible, was never in line of any wrongdoing.

Her flapperhood was hoydenish but not reprehensible. Her love affairs were hectic and frequent, but short-lived. Her fads and hobbies, though often expensive, were harmless.

And if she was criticized by some of her neighbors, she was beloved by many more.

Neighbors were numerous, though not very near.

Hilldale Park was a gesture that followed the building of the Duane house, and the exclusive reservation contained now many beautiful estates that spread out from Emily's home in all directions.

She adored Sayre, but she teased him unmercifully, for, as she told him, his own good.

Rodney, understanding, never resented it, but smiled at her in his big-hearted way.

But, innately, he rather scorned the meretricious and tawdry side of the gay crowd they went with, and hoped after he and Emily were married they would be also, what is, or used to be, known as "settled down."

Burton Lamb, his chum, was the most irrepressible spirit of the crowd, so, as he and Sayre reacted on one another, it helped both of them.

Sayre was of the Viking type. Tall, fair and of magnificent physique, he bore himself with a swinging, easy grace that was one of the first things about him that attracted Emily.

"Most too big to stand in front of a fireplace," she had said, looking at him critically, "but just grand to hand you down the steps and into the car."

And at that speech Sayre had secretly determined to hand her into her car for the rest of his life.

And now the wedding was only about forty-eight hours away.

He was a bit disappointed at Emily's insistence that she would keep her maiden surname in accordance with the views of her modern coterie, but he thought too, that she might be saying that only to tease him, and in any case she should have her own way.

So truly did he understand and respect the character of his fiancee that he was more than willing to let her do exactly as she chose in minor matters, or what seemed to her minor matters.

And so, when the gay group in the lounge, as Emily preferred to call the great living room, were talking about the personality of his bride, Sayre smiled a little to himself to think how perfectly he understood that darling person, and how easily he could persuade her to fall in more completely with his ideas, should he choose to do so.

The house party included only the out-of-town members of the wedding procession. There would be other bridesmaids and ushers from Hilldale Park, also a matron of honor, whose home, the Ravines, was near by.

Pete Gibby, a most adaptable and chummy sort, was asked because he was engaged to Betty Bailey, the maid of honor.

Gibby fitted in with the crowd, as he could fit in anywhere, by means of his suavity and gay impudence.

Aunt Judy took to him at once, as she did to most of Emily's friends, and it pleased Pete to pretend that Aunt Judy had ousted Betty completely from his affections.

"Yes, Mrs. Bell," he said, sighing, "your personality is so marvelous, so perfect that I can't help wishing——"

He broke off abruptly, as one overcome by deep feeling, and just then Emily came into the room.

"Talking about personality!" she cried; "you must indeed be hard up for a subject of conversation! I'm glad I came in——"

"Meaning you think we'll talk about you?" asked Pete. "We do that when you're not in the room."

"Go right on," Emily said, "I don't mind a bit. I shan't be listening. Oh, girls, the bridesmaids' gifts have just come! Want yours now?"

"Straight off!" and Betty and Nell took the long slender white boxes Emily held out.

They contained cigarette-holders of an astonishing length and beauty. Of exquisite white enamel, with monogram in raised goldwork, they brought forth storms of approval and gratitude.

"One for you, too, Aunt Judy," for Emily never forgot the old lady she had rejuvenated and given a new interest in life.

"And I'm going to have another thrill out of my own present," Emily went on, as she perched herself on the arm of Rod's chair, and leaned against his shoulder.

Slowly she opened the jewel case that held the bridegroom's gift to her.

A long chain of diamonds, not large, but of faultless purity.

She let the necklace run through her fingers, like a small cascade of rippling light.

"Isn't it beautiful!" she sighed in an ecstasy of satisfaction at the lovely thing.

She flung it round her neck, and let it hang down over her dress, a sports frock of dark blue crepe.

"I put on this dark thing, so it would show up better," she explained, frankly looking about for admiration. "Isn't it exquisite? Oh, Rod, it is just too darling!"

She clasped Sayre to her, and gave him a most satisfactory demonstration of love and gratitude.

Building For the New Baby's Future Health

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

MOTHERHOOD is one of God's greatest gifts to the world. There isn't a home that can function properly without a mother. If she is sick, the whole family is handicapped. Motherhood means unselfish sacrifice, suffering, and very often ill health.

Young mothers have a better chance today than they had fifty years ago. Scientific care has greatly lessened the dangers of childbirth. No greater advance in the conservation of health and life has been made than in this field. Prenatal care has done much to lessen the dangers. Modern methods of obstetrics are making safe the life and health of mother and child.

The expectant mother needs expert attention and the best of care. Doctors have learned that she must have exercise, out-of-doors life and recreation. These are just as vital or even more important than at any other time of her life.

She should be protected and assisted in her family cares by every member of the family. It is the duty of husband, relatives and friends to give every aid possible in the most unobtrusive way.

It is best that the expectant mother should plan her own diet, just as she would at any other time. This must be done in order to preserve full health and vigor. She should eat such food as will give adequate fuel value, as well as body-building material.

After the fourth month there should be an increase in the amount of food taken. It is important to meet the demands made upon her by her burden. Body changes are carried on at a greater rate and she must have more protein food. Milk is of the highest value in this respect, while meat and eggs, because of their special qualities, are also very valuable.

Milk is rich in lime, an element often lacking in the diet. It is particularly imporatnt that the expectant mother, as well as the nursing mother, should take milk in liberal quantities, at least a quart every day.

Milk is lacking in iron, which is a very necessary mineral in the system. This may be had by eating meat, eggs and the green vegetables.

We must consider the vitamins also. Unless the food contains an abundance of the vitamins, mother and child are sure to suffer. To get these, if the child is to be healthy and strong, the mother must include in her daily diet one or more salads, and two liberal helpings of green vegetables. Among such vegetables are spinach, lettuce, cabbage, cauliflower, peas and beans.

She should eat, too, liberal amounts of bread and butter. She may well include preserves, honey and simple desserts. It is a good thing to take some refreshments between meals in order to make up the required food intake. These may include an orange, a whole grain cereal with cream, bouillon with egg yolk or milk and graham crackers.

All these things, together with a cheerful and calm spirit, should make for your well-being and that of your child. Calmness of spirit is half the battle. Modern enlightened care of mothers brings returns in life and health.

ONLY A DOCTOR KNOWS WHAT A LAXATIVE SHOULD BE

Danger lies in careless selection of laxatives! By taking the first thing that comes to mind when bad breath, headaches, dizziness, nausea, biliousness, gas on stomach and bowels, lack of appetite or energy warns of constipation, you risk forming the laxative habit.

Depend on a doctor's judgment in choosing your laxative. Here's one made from the prescription of a specialist in bowel and stomach disorders. Its originator tried it in thousands of cases; found it safe for women, children and old folks; thoroughly effective for the most robust man. Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. It is composed of fresh herbs and other pure ingredients. You can get it, in generous bottles and ready for use, at any drugstore.

Here's Speedy Relief for Tender, Aching, Swollen Feet

Moone's Emerald Oil Must Give Complete Satisfaction Or Money Cheerfully Refunded.

Your feet may be so swollen and inflamed that you think you can't go another step. Your shoes may feel as if they are cutting right into the flesh. You feel sick all over with the pain and torture and pray for quick relief. What's to be done?

Two or three applications of Moone's Emerald Oil and in fifteen minutes the pain and soreness disappears. A few more applications at regular intervals and the swelling reduces.

And as for Soft Corns and Callouses a few applications each night at bed time and they just seem to shrivel up and scale off.

No matter how discouraged you have been with powders, footbaths or other applications, if you have not tried Emerald Oil then you have something to learn.

It's a wonderful formula—this combination of essential oils with camphor and other antiseptics so marvelous that thousands of bottles are sold annually for reducing varicose or swollen veins.

Every good druggist guarantees the very first bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil to end your foot troubles or money back.

GROCERS DEFEAT LEADING GORDON TIRES IN YEAR'S BEST PLAYED ENCOUNTER

Ray Smith Grants Only Four Hits In Contest—Each Score In Opening Frame But Grocers Blank League-Leaders During Remaining Eight.

In the cleanest and fastest game played in recreation ball this season, the Independent Grocers took a fall out of the Gordon Tires at Mason's Wednesday evening by a 2 to 1 count. The game puts a sprag into the smooth-running wheels of the Gordon organization, but doesn't take them from the league lead which they hold over the Doggy Ward entrant.

Each team scored in the first inning, but after that big Ray Smith, with good support, was too much for the Tires.

Ox Smith, for the Gordon's was safe on an infield error after Steele was out in the opening session and was scored by Pickens and Robinson.

George Barnes singled for the Grocers to start his teams offensive and after Smith was out Lane pushed him around to third base. Lane started to steal and Barnes tore for home when the ball was thrown to second base Barnes scored and Lane was out

The game was nip and tuck until the final half of the eighth when Lane started the ball rolling with a two base blow He took third when Puddin Oliver went up in a balloon, momentarily by making a wild pitch and scored on a single. The Gordon's were held safe in the ninth and the game was ended.

Not an argument was heard during the ball game. Every decision made by the two umpires were taken by the two teams for there was not a bad decision all during the evening.

The Grocers play fine ball, they had a fighting spirit that up to this time had failed to show itself, and when a hit meant a run Ray Smith just wouldn't permit it to be made.

Smith gave only four hits to the Gordon crew and these were divided among four men, none were for extra bases. The Grocers connected for 10 bingles from Oliver and when a hit meant a run it came

Lane led the hitters of both teams with three bingles, including a double.

Bill Merriman and Moe Rooney umpired the contest.

JACK SHARKEY AT BALL GAME

Sees Giants Plaster Pirates—Indians Drive Grove From Mound To Win.

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK, June 12 — Jack Sharkey, who knows more than a little about the art of hitting, occupied a box seat while the Giants shellacked Pittsburgh in the first game of the series, 9 to 2, for their ninth straight win.

If Jack tonight can hit half as well as the Giants did yesterday there will be plenty of misery on the Rhine, for Mr. McGraw's young men collected some sixteen hits of the combined offerings of Meine and Jones. Ott got his No. 13 during the afternoon.

Charley Root gave the Cubs a new lease on life by holding the Phillies in check while his mates pounded out a 6 to 2 win. Klein's triple with Southern and Sherlock on in the third inning accounted for the Philadelphia runs.

In a brilliantly pitched game the Robins eked out the Reds 2 to 1. The Dodgers scored the winning marker in the ninth. Vance shutout the Reds for seven innings with one hit only to have pinch-hitter Walker connect for a homer Kolp opposed Vance and gave the Dazzler a full run for his money.

St. Louis and Boston were rained out.

Detroit's seven-run assault in the seventh inning beat the Yanks 13 to 7. Owen Carrol, onetime Tiger, started on the hill for the Yanks, but was forced to retire under fire in the fifth.

Cleveland showed utter contempt for the world champion Athletics, winning the first game of the series, 6 to 2. Bob Grove was the losing pitcher. Hudlin was nicked for ten hits by the A's but kept them scattered.

Washington topped the White Sox in a tightly played game 2 to 1.

Boston and St Louis were washed out.

C. C. A. MANAGER PROTESTS GAME

Says Score of Brotherhood Game Was 14-14 and Not 15-13 As Reported.

Announcement was made by Sid Beechey, manager of the C. C. of A. team Thursday that he will protest the game with the Lutheran Brotherhood which was played Tuesday evening.

According to Beechey, the scorekeeper did not keep exact account of the game and that the score was not 15 to 13 but 14 to 14.

REJUVENATED WOODMEN 9 IS DEFEATED BY TIRE-OIL AGGREGATION; SCORE 17-8

Eddie Watson Pitches Good Ball Through Part of Game While Mates Hammer Wright From Mound—Greeno Connects For Double, Triple.

The Pettit-Sinclair's won their way into a tie with the Grocers for fourth place in the league standing Wednesday evening by defeating the Modern Woodmen, cellar champions by the score of 17 to 8 The game was fairly well played and the Woodmen held a lead of 4 to 1 over the Tire and oil boys until the fourth inning, when the latter broke loose and the former blew up and the oil boys sent five men across the plate

Eddie Watson, moundsman for the winners hurled steady ball, although he did allow three free transportations, this did not happen until the ninth frame, when the gasoline crew had a lead of 10 runs.

Watson also had three strikeouts, two of which also came in the eighth and ninth

The Woodmen came out of the slump in the fifth, seventh and ninth, during which time they were able to score four runs, mostly on errors of the oil men.

A new pitcher appeared in the box for the Woodmen in the name of Wright from Fox Post Office. He pitched fine ball in the first half of the game, but blew up during the last part of the game, Greeno had to be substituted any predictions but I expect to win."

Sharkey's manager, Johnny Buckley, predicted his fighter would win by a knockout in about five rounds Schmeling's manager, Joe Jacobs, declared unequivocally that the German "will knock Sharkey out inside of 10 rounds"

Schmeling, who is quartered at the home of a friend of Jacobs in Manhattan, planned to take a short morning walk before he is summoned to the weighing ceremonies He arrived, rather tired, from his training camp late yesterday He attended a movie last night and retired early

Sharkey was in seclusion at a hotel at Broadway and Eighty-sixth street He ordered all telephone communication with his room cut off.

EXPECT "SELL OUT"

All day long throngs of fight fans beseiged the ticket offices at Madison Square Garden. It was virtually assured that the bout would be "a sell out" The gate receipts are expected to total in the neighborhood of $750,000, the sixth biggest "gate" in the history of boxing, larger in fact, than Tunney's last chambionship bout with Tom Heeney.

Sharkey and Schmeling, in addition to fighting for the title, which is worth a million dollars in itself, are battling for 25 per cent of the gate receipts, or, about $187,500 each. After Sharkey has left the ring tonight he will have earned more than $1,000,000 in his ring career and Schmeling's earnings will have passed a quarter of a million dollars.

The crowd tonight will compare favorably with other historic prize fights, even those in which the glamorous Jack Dempsey participated. There will be the usual co-mingling of the rich and the poor, the prominent and the obscure, and the throng will have a decided Teutonic tinge. It is predicted that fully 25 per cent of the crowd will be Germans or persons of German descent.

GROCERS DEFEAT LEADING GORDON TIRES IN YEAR'S BEST PLAYED ENCOUNTER

Ray Smith Grants Only Four Hits In Contest—Each Score In Opening Frame But Grocers Blank League-Leaders During Remaining Eight.

In the cleanest and fastest game played in recreation ball this season, the Independent Grocers took a fall out of the Gordon Tires at Mason's Wednesday evening by a 2 to 1 count. The game puts a sprag into the smooth-running wheels of the Gordon organization, but doesn't take them from the league lead which they hold over the Doggy Ward entrant.

Each team scored in the first inning, but after that big Ray Smith, with good support, was too much for the Tires.

Ox Smith, for the Gordon's was safe on an infield error after Steele was out in the opening session and was scored by Pickens and Robinson.

George Barnes singled for the Grocers to start his teams offensive and after Smith was out Lane pushed him around to third base. Lane started to steal and Barnes tore for home when the ball was thrown to second base. Barnes scored and Lane was out.

The game was nip and tuck until the final half of the eighth when Lane started the ball rolling with a two base blow. He took third when Puddin Oliver went up in a balloon, momentarily by making a wild pitch and scored on a single. The Gordon's were held safe in the ninth and the game was ended.

Not an argument was heard during the ball game. Every decision made by the two umpires were taken by the two teams for there was not a bad decision all during the evening.

The Grocers play fine ball, they had a fighting spirit that up to this time had failed to show itself, and when a hit meant a run Ray Smith just wouldn't permit it to be made.

Smith gave only four hits to the Gordon crew and these were divided among four men, none were for extra bases. The Grocers connected for 10 bingles from Oliver and when a hit meant a run it came.

Lane led the hitters of both teams with three bingles, including a double.

Bill Merriman and Moe Rooney umpired the contest.

JACK SHARKEY AT BALL GAME

Sees Giants Plaster Pirates—Indians Drive Grove From Mound To Win.

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK, June 12 — Jack Sharkey, who knows more than a little about the art of hitting, occupied a box seat while the Giants plastered Pittsburgh in the first game of the series, 9 to 2, for their ninth straight win.

If Jack tonight can hit half as well as the Giants did yesterday there will be plenty of misery on the Rhine, for Mr. McGraw's young men collected some sixteen hits of the combined offerings of Meine and Jones. Ott got his No. 13 during the afternoon.

Charley Root gave the Cubs a new lease on life by holding the Phillies in check while his mates pounded out a 6 to 2 win. Klein's triple with Southern and Sherlock on in the third inning accounted for the Philadelphia runs.

In a brilliantly pitched game the Robins eked out the Reds 2 to 1. The Dodgers scored the winning marker in the ninth. Vance shutout the Reds for seven innings with one hit only to have pinch-hitter Walker connect for a homer Kolp opposed Vance and gave the Dazzler a full run for his money.

St. Louis and Boston were rained out.

Detroit's seven-run assault in the seventh inning beat the Yanks 13 to 7. Owen Carrol, onetime Tiger, started on the hill for the Yanks, but was forced to retire under fire in the fifth.

Cleveland showed utter contempt for the world champion Athletics, winning the first game of the series, 6 to 2. Bob Grove was the losing pitcher. Hudlin was nicked for ten hits by the A's but kept them scattered.

Washington topped the White Sox in a tightly played game, 2 to 1.

Boston and St. Louis were washed out.

C. C. A. MANAGER PROTESTS GAME

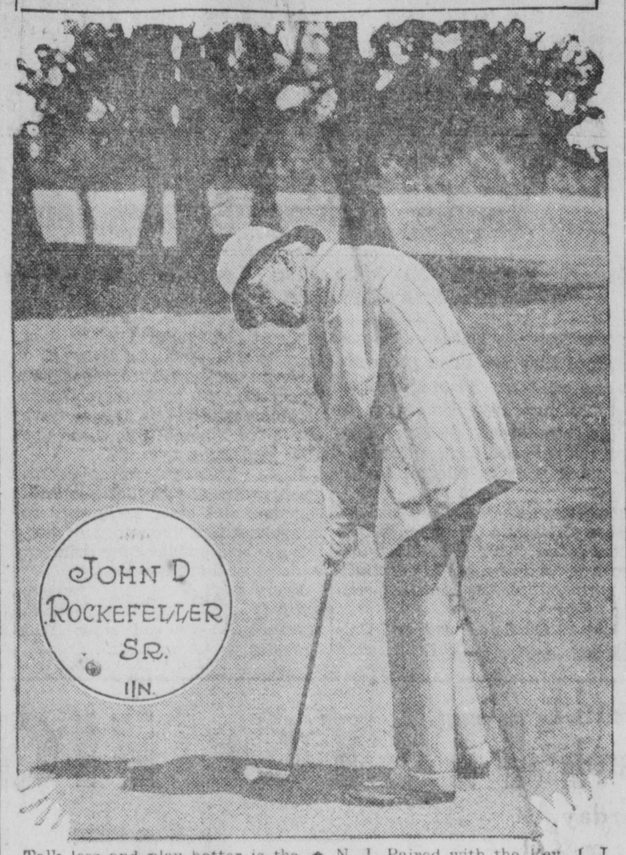
Says Score of Brotherhood Game Was 14-14 and Not 15-13 As Reported.

Announcement was made by Sid Beechey, manager of the C. C. of A. team Thursday that he will protest the game with the Lutheran Brotherhood which was played Tuesday evening.

According to Beechey, the scorekeeper did not keep exact account of the game and that the score was not 15 to 13 but 14 to 14.

John D., as Golfer, Wins, Gives Advice

"Talk Less and Play Better," He Comments After Game at Lakewood Home



Talk less and play better is the advice to golfers of one of the world's most noted if not adept golfers. It was the remark of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., as he finished his round on the private links at his home at Lakewood.

N. J. Paired with the Rev. J. J. Darling, he opposed Rev. Dr. H. E. Brooks and the Rev. R. A. Conover. The Rockefeller-Darling team won with a medal score of 75 to 80 for the seven holes.

BROADCAST FIGHT

The heavyweight fight between Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling tonight will be broadcast over the combined WEAF and WJZ network of the National Broadcasting Co.

A German network will rebroadcast the fight.

Announcers will be Graham McNamee, Miss Carmen Ogden and Paul Dumont.

REJUVENATED WOODMEN 9 IS DEFEATED BY TIRE-OIL AGGREGATION; SCORE 17-8

Eddie Watson Pitches Good Ball Through Part of Game While Mates Hammer Wright From Mound—Greeno Connects For Double, Triple.

The Pettit-Sinclair's won their way into a tie with the Grocers for fourth place in the league standing Wednesday evening by defeating the Modern Woodmen, cellar champions by the score of 17 to 8. The game was fairly well played and the Woodmen held a lead of 4 to 1 over the Tire and oil boys until the fourth inning, when the latter broke loose and the former blew up and the oil boys sent five men across the plate.

Eddie Watson, moundsman for the winners hurled steady ball, although he did allow three free transportations, this did not happen until the ninth frame, when the gasoline crew had a lead of 10 runs.

Watson also had three strikeouts, two of which also came in the eighth and ninth.

The Woodmen came out of the slump in the fifth, seventh and ninth, during which time they were able to score four runs, mostly on errors of the oil men.

A new pitcher appeared in the box for the Woodmen in the name of Wright from Fox Post Office. He pitched fine ball in the first half of the game, but blew up during the last part of the game, Greeno had to be substituted.

75,000 FANS ARE EXPECTED TO SEE FIGHT

any predictions but I expect to win."

Sharkey's manager, Johnny Buckley, predicted his fighter would win by a knockout in about five rounds. Schmeling's manager, Joe Jacobs, declared unequivocally that the German "will knock Sharkey out inside of 10 rounds."

Schmeling, who is quartered at the home of a friend of Jacobs in Manhattan,planned to take a short morning walk before he is summoned to the weighing ceremonies. He arrived, rather tired, from his training camp late yesterday. He attended a movie last night and retired early.

Sharkey was in seclusion at a hotel at Broadway and Eighty-sixth street. He ordered all telephone communication with his room cut off.

EXPECT "SELL OUT"

All day long throngs of fight fans beseiged the ticket offices at Madison Square Garden. It was virtually assured that the bout would be "a sell out." The gate receipts are expected to total in the neighborhood of $750,000, the sixth biggest "gate" in the history of boxing, larger, in fact, than Tunney's last chambionship bout with Tom Heeney.

Sharkey and Schmeling, in addition to fighting for the title, which is worth a million dollars in itself, are battling for 25 per cent of the gate receipts, or about $187,500 each. After Sharkey has left the ring tonight he will have earned more than $1,000,000 in his ring career and Schmeling's earnings will have passed a quarter of a million dollars.

The crowd tonight will compare favorably with other historic prize fights, even those in which the glamorous Jack Dempsey participated. There will be the usual co-mingling of the rich and the poor, the prominent and the obscure, and the throng will have a decided Teutonic tinge. It is predicted that fully 25 per cent of the crowd will be Germans or persons of German descent.

PARIS OBSERVES KINDNESS WEEK

PARIS— Paris' Week of Kindness, another annual affair, was a great success this year. In spite of the proverbial hard times, practically every citizen untied his purse-strings and gave what he could to penniless old people, blinded civilians and ex-soldiers; the sick, the homeless and the children of the poor

This Week of Kindness charity is particularly well-organized and contributors are permitted to know exactly which family their "bit" will be given. Large sums are not called for, often only a small amount being sufficient to save a family or individual from dire need

CARD OF THANKS

We desire, through the columns of this paper, to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to everyone who has helped us since our home was completely destroyed by fire last week. We thank those who worked so hard during the fire to try to save what they could for us, and we also wish to thank our many friends, neighbors and relatives who have been so generous in giving us donations of all kinds. Words cannot express how thankful we are to everyone who has helped us, and we want to assure each one that their labor and gifts have been greatly appreciated.

Joseph Anderson, and son Thomas and daughter Sarah.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given to the abutting property owners, whose property is located and abutting on South Court Street, I. C. H. No. 5, in the City of Circleville, Pickaway County, Ohio, between the south corporation line of said City of Circleville, Ohio, and the south line of Huston Street in said City of Circleville, Ohio.

THAT WHEREAS, on the 19th day of May, 1930, the County Commissioners of Pickaway County, Ohio, duly adopted a resolution providing for the improvement of the following described roadway: Beginning at a point on the south corporation line of Circleville, Ohio, where the same continues westwardly from the center line of Inter County Highway No. 5 and running thence northeasterly along Court Street (I. C. H. No. 5) to the south line of Huston Street, all being within the corporation of Circleville, in all a distance of 0.390 miles; that said improvement is being made by said Board of County Commissioners in cooperation with the Director of Highways of the State of Ohio for construction, reconstruction, resurfacing, widening, of Inter County Highway No. 5, to a total width of 56 feet, and that said Pickaway County's share of the cost of said improvements is Seventeen Thousand Six Hundred Twenty Two and 96-100 ($17,622,96) dollars, and that said portion in addition thereto to be especially assessed against the abutting property owners especially benefitted by said improvement is Sixteen Thousand Four Hundred Twent Two and 04-100 ($16,422.04) Dollars, said sums aforesaid are according to the estimated cost of said improvement;

That copies of the surveys, plans, profiles, cross-sections, estimates and specifications for said improvement as the same have been prepared by the Department of Highways and Public Works of the State of Ohio, together with the estimated assessment upon the lands and properties benefitted by said improvement, for the portion of costs thereof to be assessed therefor, are on file in the Office of the County Commissioners of Pickaway County, Ohio, for the inspection and examination of all persons interested therein;

That objections to said improvement and to such estimated assessments and the hearing for claims for damages sustained on account thereof, will be for hearing before said Board of County Commissioners at their office in Circleville, Ohio, on the 23rd day of June, 1930, at 9 o'clock A. M.; and that all claims for damages shall be filed in writing with the County Commissioners aforesaid on or before the time fixed for the hearing of said claims, and unless so filed the same shall be waived except to minors and other persons under disability.

PARIS OBSERVES KINDNESS WEEK

PARIS—Paris' Week of Kindness, another annual affair, was a great success this year. In spite of the proverbial hard times, practically every citizen untied his purse-strings and gave what he could to penniless old people, blinded civilians and ex-soldiers; the sick, the homeless and the children of the poor.

This Week of Kindness charity is particularly well-organized and contributors are permitted to know exactly which family their "bit" will be given. Large sums are not called for, often only a small amount being sufficient to save a family or individual from dire need.

Local W. C. T. U. Entertained By Hillsboro Unon

The Pickaway County Women's Christain Temperance Union spent an enjoyable day, Wednesday, at historic Hillsboro, when they were the guests of the Highland County W. C. T. U. at the United Brethern Church.

There they were cordially welcomed by the pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. Harry Welch and members of the local Union. After a social "get acquainted hour," a delicious chicken dinner was served to all in the basement of the church.

At two o'clock, all gathered again in the worship room of the church. Mrs. W. J. Pflume, the president of the local Hillsboro Union, was the charming chairman for the afternoon and after devotion by Rev. Welch, introduced the Highland County president, Mrs. Anetta Gall West, who responded with an earnest speech of welcome to the visitors.

A pretty piano duet followed, played by two Hillsboro ladies. The chairman then called upon the president of Pickaway-co, Mrs. Lucy B. Price, who responded in her usual gracious manner.

One after another, the following county officers and workers gave short impromtu talks. Mrs Besse Long, Mrs. Abbie Gusman, Mrs. Mary Harpster, Mrs. Noah Spangler, Mrs. Val Valentine, Mrs. Jennie Leist, Mrs. Mary Mason, and concluded with a reading by Betty Leist.

A beautiful duet, "The Garden of Prayer" was sung by Mrs. Lola Hicks, and Miss Grace Nelson.

Mr. Noah Spangler was introduced and gave a very interesting address upon, "Up to the Minute Prohibition Facts." Several visiting pastors also brought words of greeting and encouragement to the White Ribboners.

One of the happiest moments of the day followed when three of the original crusaders, one 91 years old, arose in turn, and gave stirring talks, and pictured scenes of other years. The happy meeting closed with singing, "Blest Be the Tie that Binds," after which all were taken in machines to the famous relic room in the Presbyterian church and spent a happy hour at the beautiful old home of Mother Thompson, among the priceless antiques and momentoes of other years

It was a day of rare enjoyment and of charming entertainment by the loyal Hillsboro people.

The following were among those making the pilgrimage: Dr. and Mrs. E. L Price, Mr. and Mrs. George Milligan, Mrs. Jennie Steele, Mrs. Tillie Seimer, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Spangler, and granddaughter, Clarabel, Mrs. Bessie Long, Mrs. Jennie Leist, Miss Esta Leist, Betty Leist, Mrs. Kate Reichelderfer, Miss Lydia Leist, Mrs. Rose Hartman, Mrs. Abbie Gusman, Mrs Florence Mason and children, Mrs. E. AT MEETING IN CHILLICOTHE

Miss Effie Mae Folsom, Pickaway-co tuberculosis nurse, Miss Charlote Phelps and Miss Helen Bartholomew, county nurse attended the central district meeting of nurses Wednesday, held at the Chillicothe Country Club..

Honorable L. P Mooney, of Logan, state representative from Hocking county, was the principal speaker at the Central Ohio Health commissioners' association meeting held at the Chillicothe Country Club Wednesday morning and afternoon.

Fifty public health nurses and county health commissioners were in attendance. The morning session began at 10:30 a. m. with a round table discussion of preschool conferences. This was followed at 11 a. m., by a speech on "Camp Sanitation" by F .H. Waring, chief of the division of sanitation, State Department of Health. A discussion on Mr. Waring's subject was held.

The public health nurses met in separate session at 11 a. m. After the noon luncheon, Mayor Robert J. Gunning addressed the combined groups and welcomed them to the city. F. N. R. Redfern, president of the Ross County board of health, introduced Mr. Mooney, who talked on the subject "Public Health."

The meeting closed with an open forum.

Capital Hears Dawes Plans to Resign Soon

Friends Assert Diplomacy Restraint Prevents Fiery Envoy from Expressing His Own Opinion

Reports from London indicate that Charles G. Dawes, Ambassador to the Court of St. James's, plans to resign from the diplomatic service. President Hoover, however, has denied that his envoy will give up the post. The fiery General, who as Vice-President of the United States, shook the Senate, is on his way home, despite the report of Secretary of State Stimson that he could not leave England without making formal application to the State Department.

SPHINX WOULD'VE TALKED ABOUT U. S.

MANCHESTER, England.—"If ever the Sphinx could have got to America and had been allowed to return, he would have broken his silence," declared Vivian Carter, who at one time was editor of the "Rotarian," upon his arrival from the States.

One month was a statuary limit during which to become an authority on America and all things American.

"If one stays longer, one gets behind the skyline of New York, and loses one's sense of the enormity of the position," he said.

"When you get over there, the American will tell you that you have not gone there to give them pleasure, but to get their dollars. That is not far wrong."

Speaking of "Big Bill Thompson," he said: "You must not take too much notice of him. They don't over there."

The homes in New York City, he declared, are places where you sleep, or use as a meeting place for your wife. If a friend is to be entertained he is taken to a hotel or club.

Capital Hears Dawes Plans to Resign Soon

Friends Assert Diplomacy Restraint Prevents Fiery Envoy from Expressing His Own Opinion

Reports from London indicate that Charles G. Dawes, Ambassador to the Court of St. James, plans to resign from the diplomatic service. President Hoover, however, has denied that his envoy will give up the post. The fiery General, who as Vice-President of the United States, shook the Senate, is on his way home, despite the report of Secretary of State Stimson that he could not leave England without making formal application to the State Department.

SPHINX WOULD'VE TALKED ABOUT U. S.

MANCHESTER, England.—"If ever the Sphinx could have got to America and had been allowed to return, he would have broken his silence," declared Vivian Carter, who at one time was editor of the "Rotarian," upon his arrival from the States.

One month was a statuary limit during which to become an authority on America and all things American.

"If one stays longer, one gets behind the skyline of New York, and loses one's sense of the enormity of the position," he said.

"When you get over there, the American will tell you that you have not gone there to give them pleasure, but to get their dollars. That is not far wrong."

Speaking of "Big Bill Thompson," he said: "You must not take too much notice of him. They don't over there."

The homes in New York City, he declared, are places where you sleep, or use as a meeting place for your wife. If a friend is to be entertained he is taken to a hotel or club.
